And the serpent enticed and persuaded the woman to eat from the tree of knowledge, and the woman hearkened to the voice of the serpent, and she transgressed the word of God, and took from the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, and she ate, and she took from it and gave also to her husband and he ate. His throne was erected by the tree of life, and God addressed Adam:

When Shaara passed away in he did so believing his novel to have underachieved. I was so intrigued that I read it in less than a day! Arrived at the gates of Paradise, Eve and Seth began to cry bitterly, and they besought God with many lamentations to give them oil from the tree of His mercy. Why have I read this book so often?

I almost kind of wished that things had stayed at the high school and college level. This novel exists far apart from the idea of victory and loss:
